

Ted Wragg Teacher Training Partnership – Policy Suite

The Ted Wragg Teacher Training Partnership (TWTP) brings together a wide range of stakeholders who work collectively to deliver high-quality initial teacher education that is fully aligned with the Department for Education’s ITT Compliance Criteria. As the Accredited Provider, TWTP holds ultimate accountability for the strategic leadership, governance, and quality assurance of the programme. This includes full ownership of the Partnership’s Policy Suite, which underpins the effective, compliant, and well-regulated operation of all training and placement activity.

Trainee teachers, however, undertake their professional practice within the established partnerships of our training partners and across a diverse range of placement schools.

While the SCITT retains overarching oversight, assurance, and accountability for the quality and consistency of training, trainees are also required to comply with relevant operational and statutory policies within their individual training institutions and placement settings. This ensures that they meet both provider level expectations and the professional requirements of the environments in which they train.

The distribution of responsibilities—across the Accredited Provider, training partners, and placement schools—is clearly articulated within our formal Partnership Agreements. These agreements specify roles, expectations, and lines of accountability in line with ITT Compliance Criterion C3.1, ensuring coherent partnership working, transparent governance, and a shared commitment to safeguarding high-quality training and outcomes for all trainees.
